This video is not available in your country.

Damn cowards won’t even tell which country they consider to be mine, and they don’t tell me in which countries it would be available. It would be much nicer if we would just get a video explaining the legal issues surrounding it in some country but still be able to have all the tools to share the video with people who might be in another country. But this is the link, and if you can view the video of E.G. Daily your government has already found a way to make you pay for it. For those who don’t this is probably an illegal video on the same site:
